

How can cash-poor couples get the most bang for their buck? David Levy, president of Regency Diamonds, third-generation manufacturers of diamonds and fine jewelry, says that bigger is not always better, advising couples not to sacrifice quality for size. "Don't go for a super-large stone; if it's not in your budget, go with a smaller stone of a higher quality. You can always upgrade the size later." (Shopping tip: Regency Diamonds sells their rings at wholesale prices. Call for an appointment.)
